RE: Textbook Selection Due Dates to Follett

The Federal Higher Education Opportunity (HEOA) Act textbook provision, effective July 1, 2010, mandates that when a course is listed by an accredited university, the full costs of that course are disclosed to all prospective and enrolled students considering course registration (read more at http://pvcaa.siue.edu/common/documents/heoa-textbook.pdf). This requirement includes book and rental materials, which must be specified when the course is actually scheduled by the faculty or department.

Advance registration for the Spring semester 2020 is expected to open in late October, 2019. The goal for textbook adoptions on file at the time registration opens is 100%, which means that SIU would be in compliance with the Department of Education mandate to distribute this information to students.

Your assistance in helping us provide this service is greatly appreciated. Watch for textbook adoption forms to be delivered from the Bookstore. Please send all inquiries by contacting the bookstore, 536-3321, or make selections on Follett's webpage at https://adoptions.efollett.com/OnlineAdoptionsWeb/onlineAdoptions.html?storeNumber=625&langId=en_US or with selected materials including author(s), title, edition, publisher, date, and ISBN. Please ensure that all courses you are scheduling for the Spring semester have course materials, where appropriate, ordered no later than October 15, 2019.

Please note that a number of courses, such as studios, internships, and independent studies, do not need textbooks. But it is important for the faculty to decide for themselves how they wish to teach and what materials they require their students to acquire. For information please contact the bookstore at 536-3321.
